(b) Policies and due diligence processes

Policies

Lowe-Martin maintains a Code of Ethics Policy. Key highlights of this Policy as it relates to Bill S-211:

1. Employment Standards

We follow all Employment Standards in Ontario as set out in the Employment Standards Act, 2000 (ESA), and the most up-to-date version of What Employees Need to Know is posted at all of our locations. Updates are posted and given to employees as required.

2. Child Labour

Lowe-Martin employs workers who meet the applicable minimum legal age requirements per the Occupational Health and Safety Act in Ontario for Industrial Establishments.

3. Forced Labour

There is no forced labour of any form at Lowe-Martin.

4. External Relationships

We are known by our customers for the quality and value of the products and services we provide. We value the relationships we have established and realize they are built on trust and cooperation.

We are committed to building a culture of trust, not only with our employees, but also our customers, vendors, contractors, regulators and stockholders. Lowe-Martin seeks to always maintain the highest standards of integrity and objectivity in our working relationships and will not conduct business with anyone who does not operate with integrity or who compromises the company's values and ethical standards.

Due Diligence Processes

The following elements of the due diligence process have been implemented in relation to forced labour and/or child labour.

- Embedding responsible business conduct into policies and management systems
- Ceasing, preventing or mitigating adverse impacts
- Tracking implementation and results

Upon initial hiring, our organization maintains records of each employee's date of birth to ensure that there are no employees hired below the minimum regulated age. Since Lowe-Martin is a secure facility this is backed up by a police record check on each employee. Individual Employment Records (proof of identity and social insurance number) maintained by Lowe-Martin's Human Resources department.

The prohibition of forced labour is supported by statements made on our website concerning employment at Lowe-Martin, employment offer letters, job descriptions, posters and information posted throughout facilities and records such as pay statements.

Additionally, all Lowe-Martin employees sign our code of Ethics and a record of this is maintained by the Human Resources department.

(c) Forced Labour and Child Labour Risks

Lowe-Martin is committed to respecting human rights and ensuring that forced labour and child labour is not a part of any product within our supply chain. We have started the process of identifying risks, but there are still gaps in our assessments that we are working to address.

1. Risks in Supply Chain

Lowe-Martin has identified forced labour or child labour risks related to any of the following aspects of its activities and supply chain:

- The types of products it sources
- The raw materials or commodities used in its supply chains
- Tier one (direct) suppliers
- Tier two suppliers
- The use of outsourced, contracted or subcontracted labour

Lowe-Martin has identified forced labour or child labour risks in its activities and supply chains related to the following sectors and industries

- Forestry (paper)
- Utilities
- Manufacturing
- Transportation and warehousing
- Administrative and support, waste management and remediation services

2. Risk Assessment & Actions Taken

- Lowe-Martin Maintains an Approved Vendor List and only Suppliers/Vendors on this list can be used.
- All Suppliers/Vendors are approved prior to use, Supplier Application and Evaluation is required.
- Vendors key to the supply chain to the products produced by Lowe-Martin are evaluated on a regular basis.
- Lowe-Martin purchases majority of paper from Forest Stewardship Council (FSC) certified suppliers. To be FSC certified companies must comply with Core Labour requirements including forced labour or child labour which are independently audited by a registrar. Lowe-Martin is also FSC certified.
- Lowe-Martin primarily purchases from Vendors based in Canada.

3. Future Planned actions:

- Modify the Supplier Application/Evaluation form used by Lowe-Martin to include information on compliance to forced labour or child labour

(d) Remediation Measures

Lowe-Martin has not identified any forced labour or child labour in our activities and supply chains during the reporting period. No measures have been taken to remediate forced labour or child labour in their activities and supply chains. Should remediation be required in the future Lowe-Martin is committed to appropriate remedies depending on the circumstances.

(e) Remediation of loss of income

Lowe-Martin has judged that vulnerable families have not experienced loss of income as a result of steps Lowe-Martin has taken to eliminate forced labour or child labour risks, no additional measures have been taken in this area.

(f) Training

Lowe-Martin currently provides training to all employees on forced labour and/or child labour. All employees receive a copy of Lowe-Martin’s Code of Ethics Policy as described in section (b) containing specific paragraphs on child and forced labour. Reading the Code of Ethics is one component of the employee orientation and once read it is signed off by the employee and kept on file. For the last few years, it has been incorporated into our HRDownloads employee bundle, so the record is kept electronically. All employees are required to read through this document. The document originated from Lowe-Martin.

(g) Effectiveness Assessment

Lowe-Martin currently monitors the following Key Performance Indicators (KPIs) as part of its effectiveness in ensuring that forced labour and child labour are not being used in its activities and supply chains:

- Setting up a regular review of Lowe-Martin’s policies and procedures related to forced labour and child labour
- Number of employees trained
- Number of supplier evaluations completed
- Tracking numbers of cases or allegations of forced or child labour
