We also supply thread bar systems for a variety of technical engineering purposes, including thread bar anchors for mining and tunnelling, reinforcement connections, form ties, tie rods, soil nails, micropiles and rock and soil anchors for geotechnical applications.

MANA has 130 employees, and we run two shifts at our steel production facility in Hamilton, Ontario. We are one of Hamilton's top growing businesses. Our operations are certified to ISO 9001:2015 Quality Standards and IATF 16949:2016 Automotive Management.

Part of our commitment to improvement involves promoting integrity and ethical principles in all aspects of our business and building a strong corporate social responsibility foundation. MANA operates in accordance with international human rights, including by prohibiting forced labour and child labour of any kind.

Our Supply Chains

The vast majority of our sourcing is comprised of raw steel, of which 80 percent is procured from sources within North America. In 2023, the remaining 20 percent was sourced from Norway, though depending on the year we may source steel from other countries internationally. The remainder of our inputs are sourced globally by our procurement team, and amount to less than 10 percent of our purchases. As a company with cross-border and international reach, we understand the risk of forced labour or child labour in supply chains and have policies and procedures to mitigate such risk.

Risks of Forced Labour and Child Labour in our Supply Chains

Thes risk of forced labour in our supply chains are largely mitigated by most of our inputs being procured in North America. Some risks nonetheless remain, and we aim to mitigate these risks through our internal policies and procedures.

MANA's reputation for upholding integrity in our operations is earned through our commitment to constant improvement. This includes improving our approach to human rights protections within our operations.
