Inno Foods has established a variety of relevant policies to address modern slavery and human trafficking:

1. Workplace Labor Rights Policy demonstrates our commitment to maintaining safe and inclusive workplaces that are based on recognized human rights, including the Canadian Human Rights Act.
2. Our Supplier Code of Conduct outlines standards to ensure that working conditions in the supply chain area are safe, that workers are treated with respect and dignity and that design and manufacturing processes are environmentally and ethically responsible. It also requires suppliers to comply with the Act. We aim to achieve our purpose only by working closely with our Supplier Partners. Inno Foods Inc. Supplier Code of Conduct explains how we expect farmers, producers, manufacturers, distributors, and others to work with us to fulfill that purpose, ethically and in compliance with applicable laws.

In all activities, suppliers must conduct business in full compliance with the laws, rules, and regulations of the countries in which they operate and with the laws, rules, and regulations of any other jurisdiction that applies to them. Suppliers are encouraged to go beyond legal compliance, drawing upon internationally recognized standards as indicated in each subsection of this code, to advance social and environmental responsibilities. When the country's laws and international standards address the same issues, we expect the highest standards to be applied.

Suppliers are expected to take all reasonable measures to ensure the respect of this Code across their entire business and within their supply chains.

To prevent slavery and human trafficking in our business and supply chain we have implemented internal accountability standards and procedures.

Forced or Child Labor Risks in Our Business

Inno Foods has put in place measures to detect, minimize, and eradicate instances of modern slavery in our business operations. In the event such situations arise, the Company is committed to assessing and addressing them promptly. Moreover, we have recognized the presence of child labor within certain segments of our supply chains that may relate to:

- Purchasing or distributing products.
- Raw materials or commodities; and/or in relation to agriculture, forestry, fishing and hunting sectors and we have proactively taken supplementary actions, including amending contracts, policies, and our Supplier Code of Conduct. This approach helps us prioritize our efforts and adjust our actions.

Remediation Measures

Inno Foods has conducted an assessment of our operations and supply chains, including mapping and monitoring supply chains as explained in this Report. Inna Foods will continue taking steps to address any non-compliance that is identified. The company is committed to devising and executing corrective measures to rectify and enhance the situation such as reducing the purchase quantities and reliance on the supplier engaging in child or forced labor within their supply chain by prioritizing sourcing from our alternate supplier for the majority of our needs. Ultimately, the aim is to transition our sourcing activities into secondary suppliers.

Assessing Effectiveness

Inno Foods evaluates slavery and human trafficking risks as part of some of the regular reviews conducted by our Supplier Team. We remain committed to consistently reviewing, reassessing, and enhancing our anti-slavery and human trafficking initiatives. Our aim is not only to meet legal requirements but also to uphold the core values articulated in this Report. This Report, together with the outlined policies, processes, and procedures, serves as a comprehensive framework to ensure that Inno Foods and its suppliers are steadfastly dedicated to fostering a workplace and supply chain devoid of slavery and human trafficking.
